Detroit Wedding Day is a wedding planning magazine and wedding website.

Engaged couples do a lot of research to help them create a memorable wedding day. We want to make that job easier. We do this by connecting our readers to businesses that have the products and services that they are looking for.

First, we ask the questions that many couples would normally ask.

Then, we do the research to help them find the perfect professional. We do all of this to help our readers save valuable time.

As a result, brides and grooms find both the wedding magazine and wedding website to be a very helpful wedding planning tool that is easy to use.
